

IEL S-D50 Section 1C. English for Design (CRN: 31079)

Stephanie Mikelis MA

Open only to students accepted by a professional school of design or architecture where the instruction is in English. This program provides a wide-ranging orientation to the linguistic, philosophical, and cultural mores that are found in graduate schools of architecture and design. Students attend daily language classes where they read and discuss design texts; in addition, they participate in oral presentations and undertake writing projects in workshops, attend lectures by Harvard faculty, and visit locations of architectural and cultural importance in the Boston area.
