

CREA S-25 Section 2. Beginning Fiction (CRN: 31671)

Paul L. Harding MFA, Preceptor in Expository Writing, Harvard University

Students learn and practice the fundamentals of writing fiction--description, dialogue, tone, plotting, and so on--in a workshop setting. By discussing and analyzing published short fiction, students learn the narrative techniques and strategies of creative writers. Intended for those who write regularly and wish to broaden their skills and talents.
